

【大谷家文書】 5-35-1

A large, bold calligraphic character '定' (Ding) in cursive script, rendered in black ink on a light background. The character is composed of a single, continuous, fluid stroke that starts with a small hook at the top left, curves around to the right, and then extends downwards and to the left, ending in a long, sweeping tail stroke that curves back towards the right. The ink is thick and expressive, with visible texture and varying line thicknesses characteristic of traditional Chinese calligraphy.
